

F-A-T-H-E-R's Day Scavenger Hunt

F is for Fun! Help your child have fun with daddy by serving them both breakfast in bed!

A is for Active! Encourage your child and daddy to go on a long bike ride, take a nature walk, or kick a soccer ball out in the yard!

T is for Tummy time! Place some comfy pillows and blankets out on the floor, pop some popcorn, and let your child and daddy lay on their tummies and enjoy a good movie!

H is for Happy! Help your child draw a picture of their father and ask them to dictate what they can do to make their daddy happy, such as “give him a hug!” Then, let your child give him the picture and do the thing that will make their father happy!

E is for Entertaining! Help your child put on a Father’s Day show for daddy by singing a few songs, telling a few jokes, and maybe even showing off some new dance moves. Of course, let daddy join in whenever he wants!

R is for Reading! Nothing like ending Father’s Day then reading a few books together before bedtime!
