

Make a card, send a card!

Did you know that the first Saturday in October is “World Card Making Day”? Well, it is and what better way to connect with family or friends who live far away than by sending a homemade card! Help your child make a card by using a piece of construction paper or index card folded in half. Maybe they draw a self-portrait to show grandma or granddad how much they have grown! Maybe they draw jack-o-lanterns with silly faces for an early Halloween greeting to their cousins! After the card is completed, with a special message dictated by your child and written by you, go through the whole process of how you send a card in the mail. Your child can put their card in an envelope, watch you address it, put the stamp on it all by themselves, and finally drop it in the mailbox. Hopefully, the person who receives this special card will send one back to your child!
