

Must Love Books

By Janet Summer Johnson

When the main character's daddy gets a new job, he is too tired to read bedtime stories, so it's time to get a new adult to read at night! It is very important for children to have someone read their stories to them with enthusiasm and love! The next time you are reading with your child, ask them what they like about the way you read. Do they like you to change voices for different characters? Do they like it when you let them turn the pages? Do they like when you read books that have songs and you let them sing with you? Maybe if you can do all of the things
