

Tummy Fun

Each page of this book asks a question and then answers it on the next page, and the main characters are adorable babies! This is a great book to teach your child how to ask a question and then wait for a response. As you read, pause after each question page to model for your child how to wait for an answer before moving on. After reading this book, role-play with your child using stuffed animals or baby dolls. Sit on the floor with your child to play. Use a stuffed animal to ask another stuffed animal a question. Have your child pick up the other stuffed animal to answer the question, and then let their stuffed animal ask a question. If you have any cloth puppets or baby dolls, those will work as well! Remind your child to use “wait time” after they ask a question to allow the other person to respond!
