

Who's That Horsing Around the Farm?

This fun mystery book shows a small body part of an animal, and your child has to guess which animal it belongs to! When they check their guess by turning the page, they will also get some cool facts about each animal! After reading this book, make your own lift-the-flap books! Take some of your child's favorite books and cut out shapes that will cover some of the items in each book. Maybe the main character is an animal, or a toy. Put a piece of tape at the top of the shape and place it over the picture in the book you are hiding, but make sure to leave one tiny part of the item exposed: a hand, a foot, or some other identifiable feature. Now, when you read those stories, have your child guess what is under each shape, then let them pull it up to see if they were right!
